

WINERIES, BREWERIES, DISTILLERIES & CIDER HOUSES

Door County wines, beers, liquors and ciders are taking over taverns and pubs throughout the Midwest. See where the country's lust for cherry wine and Door County beer began with a wine tasting, a visit to one of the area's many breweries or distilleries, see an only-of-its-kind Cider House or take a trip to a pub where a friendly bartender can suggest his or her favorite locally grown spirits.

WINERIES

Door County has long been known for its excellent fruit wines, but did you know that local wineries also produce a wide variety of reds, whites, and ports that stack up with the best wines in the region? Wine lovers will find days of tasting at the wineries of Door County, with eight now dotting the peninsula and more in the planning stages. The best way to see them all is by following the Door County Wine Trail or taking a trolley winery tour. You can also just drop in and taste at most wineries throughout the year. Bring your palate and be ready to be surprised by what Door County's winemakers have to offer.

BREWERIES

The craft beer scene continues to grow in Door County as local brewers add to their list of unique offerings, often using locally sourced ingredients. Grab your favorite beer and enjoy live music, delicious food, water views and outdoor seating as you explore our local breweries.

DISTILLERIES

For those who prefer craft spirits, you can now find a variety produced right here in Door County. You can find handcrafted vodka, gin, brandy, whisky, rum and moonshine and even spirits made with organic grains and honey.

CIDER HOUSE

Island Orchard Cider offers tastings at its Ellison Bay tasting room, where they make cider from apples plucked from an orchard on Washington Island. The ciders are dry, crisp and refreshing; richly complex with fruit, natural tannins, sugars and higher acidity. These all come together to create a cider that is delicious with rich foods, cheeses, and desserts.
